AN ANCIENT BUDDHIST INSCRIPTION. (Pall Mail Gazette.) A most interesting paper has lately been communicated to the Royal Asiatic Society by the Roy. Alexander Wylie, on the subject of an ancient Buddhist inscription that exists on the interior of an archway in the village of Keuyung-kwan in North China. The arch, which spans the village street, was, as its name. Kwochien-ta, denotes, originally surmounted by a pagoda; butin consequence of the aversion shown by the Mongols to passing under the ominous building, the pagoda was about four centuries ago removed by order of the Government, the rest of the structure being left as it at present Wong Apo, for entering the house of Ng- stunds. The arch is built of white marble, and its structure is remarkable from the fact that while its blocks are cut for a circular, arch, the inner surfaces are bewn to produce a ceiling of sem-hexagonal form. The chief interest attaching to it, however, is centred in the inscriptions in six languages - viz. Smskrit, Thibetun, public by Mr. Wylie, in a paper which was published in the Journal of the Royal Asiatic most important of the two, was only procured. by him at a recent date. The Sanstrit and inscribed in horizontal line of feet in depth, and below these are same in Bashpah, Unisour, Nepolish, ference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few in-dred of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in

Chine it cannot but be invaluable occasionally,

This, as regards the "hill women;" of the men, the dustmen "and servers," he reports them "a healthy ruddy-complexioned race, the healthiest set of men I have ever seen." He even goes the length of asserting that experience and observation justifies him in declaring, that no score of selected London tradesmen could be found to match the same number of dustmen brought ensually together. Indeed, so often is it shown that individuals employed at the nastiest of work enjoy perfect mmunity from the most virulent diseases, that it is hard to understand what it is that breeds fever and pestilence. a reputation for their prepared Occas, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of Maravilla Coroa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which expersedes every other Occon in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocca above all others. For homospaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage."
